Greener Living and Art Appreciation: An Inspired Combination

Crozer Library is the place to be on Saturday, December 6th. Start the last month of 2008 by becoming more environmentally conscious and enjoy some artwork while you're at it! From 11 a.m. to 12 noon on Dec. 6th, the Pennsylvania Resources Council will present "Greener Lifestyles," where you can learn how to be more earth friendly while saving money this holiday season. Crozer Library is proud to host an exhibit of student artwork from Smedley Allied Health High School. The community is invited to celebrate the artists' work at a reception on Saturday, December 6th from 1:00-3:00p.m. Light refreshments will be served. The students' artwork will be on display Dec. 6th-18th.

Whip Up Something Special this Holiday Season

Flip through Crozer Library's cookbook collection to find inspiration for holiday meals both classic and adventurous. From entrées to desserts, our cookbooks are full of unique ideas and step-by-step instructions.

Book Clubs coming in January

Crozer Library's new Urban Fiction book club will meet beginning Sat., Jan. 24th, 2009 from 11 a.m.-12 noon. The first title will be Sister

Souljah's The Coldest Winter Ever. A Mystery Book Club is also forming and will most likely meet on Tuesday evenings starting in mid- to late January. The first title will be Courting Trouble by Philadelphia's Lisa Scottoline. Please call 610-494-3454 to register.

Music Celebrating the Spirit of the Season

The Retired and Senior Volunteer

Program's "Guys and Gals" singing group will get you in the spirit of the season on Thursday, December 11th from 11:00a.m. to noon.
